It's back to square one; court nixes redistricting

Legislators to run in districts drawn after the 2002 U.S. Census

The Kentucky Supreme Court last Friday upheld a lower court ruling that this year's redistricting of legislative boundaries was unconstitutional.

"Until the General Assembly passes redistricting legislation that complies with Section 33 of the Kentucky Constitution, the terms of the injunction entered by the Franklin Circuit Court remain in place," the high court said.

The ruling means that district boundaries enacted in 2002 remain in place. The filing deadline for candidates to run from these districts was Feb. 10.

The redistricting bills approved by the legislators and subsequent legal action challenging their constitutionality created uncertainty for lawmakers, because they did not know from which district they would run.

As a consequence, of the court ruling, Morgan County, which was moved from the 25th District to Democrat Sen. Ray Jones's 31st District, is now back in the Water district gets funds for leak detection

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 27 — Seven small drinking water treatment systems in Kentucky will receive financial assistance through a new program designed to improve their technical, managerial and financial capabilities to ensure production of safe drinking water in a consistent, cost-effective manner. Small systems are those that serve fewer than 10,000 customers.

Included is the Morgan County Water District, which will receive $18,700 to purchase leak detection equipment for locating leaks within the distribution system.

The other facilities selected for funding through the Capacity Development Assistance Program for Small Systems include Bronston (Pulaski County) Water Association, Calhoun (McLean County) Water Works,

EDA allots funds to construct new Caney Ck. bridge

WASHINGTON — U.S. Commerce Secretary John Bryson on Tuesday announced a $626,000 Economic Development Administration (EDA) allocation to construct a new elevated bridge across Caney Creek. The bridge will be higher than the 100-year flood plain, and will facilitate access to businesses and health services in the region. Bryson said.

The funds are included in $2.2 million EDA investment package

Paul Gilley Day set June 9

Maytown residents to honor native son

The people of Maytown will celebrate one of the community's favorite native sons on June 9 and invites everyone to attend the first annual Paul Gilley Day in Maytown.

If you aren't familiar with Paul Gilley, he was probably one of the greatest country music songwriters of our time. He wrote such great songs as "Cold, Cold Heart," "I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry," "Your Cheatin' Heart," "If Teardrops Were Pennies," and many more.

Most of his big hit songs were sold to Hank Williams and other artists in the late 1940s and early 1950s. It was Gilley's practice to go to Nashville, take his songs and sell them to music companies and artists.

Gilley, who was an unusual individual and exceptionally talented, was just beginning to gain recognition with songwriters and music companies throughout the United States when he died in a tragic drowning accident in a farm pond at Maytown in 1957. He was 27.

Paul Gilley Day will be proclaimed by Morgan County Judge Executive Tim Conley, who has already made arrangements for highway signs to be erected at the junction of U.S. 460 and Ky. 1010 near Ezel proclaiming Maytown as the "birthplace of Paul Gilley, songwriter."

Magistrate Frankie Spencer, chairman of the event, said, "The day will include the unveiling of a large Paul Gilley sign in Maytown, music beginning at 12 noon on a stage provided by Jude Conley, and a tribute to Paul Gilley by Bob Johnson."

The entertainment will include Andrea Trusty singing "The Ballad of Paul Gilley," and plenty of bluegrass and country music, Spencer said.

Randy Maloney will be in charge of the entertainment and food will be provided at Maloney's Grocery Store featuring "the best pizza in the county" along with hamburgers and drinks.

Local historian Lynn Nickell will have his latest book, "Gilley," available for a book signing, and an art print of Gilley by Dewey Gibbs, retired art teacher at Wolfe County High School, will also be available. Gibbs' father was Carter Gibbs, who co-wrote a number of songs with Gilley, including "I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry."

The event will be sponsored by the people of Maytown, the West Liberty Kiwanis Club, and Commercial Bank.

Fire destroys residence on Hwy. 191

Caney Valley Volunteer Fire Department responded to a Feb. 27 housefire that destroyed a residence on Hwy. 191.

Chief Peter Brandt said dispatch received a call at approximately 8:30 a.m. advising of a fire at the home of Howard Dunn located at 935 Hwy. 191.

"The home was completely destroyed and the owner lost everything," Brandt said. "Firefighters contained the blaze in approximately an hour and a half."

No injuries were reported. The fire's cause remains undetermined at press time.

"I'd like to thank West Liberty Fire Department, Blackwater Fire Department and White Oak Fire Department for providing mutual aid backup," Brandt said.

Anyone interested in joining Caney Valley Fire Department is urged to contact Brandt at 743-2623.

Annual Farm and Family Night plans being finalized

Event will include free classes, free meal, free information, door prizes

Free classes, free meal and free information will once again highlight the 20th Annual Farm and Family to be offered Tuesday, March 13, at the Morgan County High School.

The event is coordinated by the Morgan County Extension Service Staff and County Extension Council and funded by local sponsors including Bank of the Mountains, Commercial Bank, Mt. Telephone, Morgan County Extension District Board, Licking Valley RECC, Soil Conservation, Farm Bureau and West Liberty Nursing & Rehab Center.

Error is corrected in area meat processing plant story

Morgan and Wolfe ag boards contributed $20,000 each to project

A recent story in this newspaper concerning the beginning of construction of an area meat-processing facility at Helechawa erroneously listed the amounts of funding provided for the project by the Morgan and Wolfe County agricultural boards. Each county contributed $20,000 — not $10,000 — toward the $70,000 local obligation needed to purchase a $350,000 USDA-certified meat cooling system. The remainder of the local obligation was provided by the ag boards in five other participating counties: Rowan, Elliott, Breathitt, Perry,

Police officer shoots, kills man during domestic call

WLPD Chief Hensley says Sgt. Scott Adkins "had no choice"

By Miranda M. Cantrell

A local man is dead after he was shot by a West Liberty Police Department member who was responding to a domestic call on Wednesday, Feb. 22.

Dispatch records show that Jimmy Hill, 43, called the police at approximately 2 p.m. during a reported verbal altercation with his wife, Erica Hill, at their 608 Liberty Road residence across from West Liberty Elementary School.

Police Chief Kelse Hensley was the first officer to arrive at the scene, where Jimmy Hill allegedly brandished a machete and a lock-blade hunting knife upon Chief Hensley's arrival.

Chief Hensley said Hill — who appeared to be intoxicated — ignored directives to drop the weapons.

"I repeatedly asked Mr. Hill to put down the knives and he refused," Chief Hensley said. "I tried to talk him down, but he didn't comply."

The chief said that when Sgt. Scott Adkins arrived at the scene a few minutes later, Jimmy Hill advanced toward Sgt. Adkins with the knives.

Sgt. Adkins shot Jimmy Hill once in the chest on the house's front porch. The shooting was witnessed by several WLES kindergarten students on the playground across the street during recess.

Chief Hensley and Sgt. Adkins began first aid procedures before Hill was transported to Morgan County ARH, where he died while awaiting a medical helicopter.

Neither of the police officers nor Erica Hill were injured in the incident.

"This was a regrettable and unavoidable incident," Chief Hensley said. "We did all we could possibly do to diffuse the situation, and we were not given the opportunity to change the outcome. Sgt. Adkins was met with deadly force, and he responded with deadly force. He had no choice."

Chief Hensley expressed the department's condolences to Jimmy Hill's family during a recent television interview with WKYT News.

"I ask that the community pray for Mr. Hill's surviving family members," Chief Hensley said. "Our thoughts are with them."

City Council asked to pay damages in cruiser crash

The father of Jean-Ann Wilhoite says officer did not use emergency lights

By Miranda M. Cantrell

The West Liberty City Council during its regular Feb. 27 meeting heard a grievance from Darrell Pelfrey on behalf of his daughter, Jean-Ann Wilhoite, 36, whose vehicle was totaled in a Jan. 19 automobile accident involving a city police cruiser.

Kentucky State Police officials said that City Patrolman Sheldon Perry was responding to a motorist assistance call at approximately 7 p.m. on the right shoulder of the westbound lane on Index Hill when Wilhoite's vehicle struck the police car in the rear.

Pelfrey said Wilhoite did not see the police cruiser and that Patrolman Perry later admitted to Pelfrey that his blue emergency lights were not turned on when the crash occurred.

"I think this incident would have never happened if Officer Perry had used his emergency lights," Pelfrey said. "I'm not here to criticize him or say that he should be punished. He is a good police officer and a veteran, but he made a mistake. I believe the city council should either replace my daughter's car or pay her the cash value of the vehicle."

The council went into executive session to discuss the matter, which City Attorney Joleen Frederick said must be examined by the municipality's insurance carrier.

"The council cannot write a check out of the general fund for these damages," Frederick said. "Liability must be determined by the insurance company. An independent investigation must take place, because council members are not qualified to make decisions regarding liability."

Frederick advised Wilhoite to submit a formal request to city officials, who would forward the letter to their insurance carrier.

The council also heard a complaint from Oscar Lane resident Judy Klawetter about shooting in the Wells Hill area before the council approved the first reading of a new ordinance regarding hunting and the discharge of firearms.

Police Chief Kelse Hensley said that the ordinance — which is significantly more stringent than previous weapon regulations — will carry a fine of no

Lanny Franklin, festival founder, passes Monday

West Liberty native, Lanny Franklin, died at his home in West Liberty early Monday morning, Feb. 27.

Lanny was a retired employee of Commercial Bank, in West Liberty, where he served the public for many years.

Mr. Franklin had many interests, one of which was bluegrass music. He was the founder of the Old Mill Bluegrass Festival, and was very humbled last year when the 16th annual event took on the name "Lanny Franklin's Old Mill Bluegrass Festival". His involvement with this festival resulted in him being featured in the July/August 2008 issue of Bluegrass

Meth seminar

Kentucky State Police Public Affairs Officer, Trooper Endre Samu, above, presented a training seminar to 63 staff members in three sessions at the Mountain Telephone Company in West Liberty. The training focused on the awareness of meth labs, its impact on the families within the community, the cost of medical treatment, and legislative actions that could reduce the manufacturing of the dangerous narcotic.

American Cancer Society's Relay for Life of Morgan Co. is May 11th

On Friday, May 11, at 6:00 p.m.-6:00 a.m., Morgan County residents will gather and take steps toward a world with less cancer and more birthdays during Relay For Life of Morgan County. The event will be held at Morgan County Equestrian Park, West Liberty.

Relay for Life takes place overnight on an athletic track, park or other gathering area. Individuals and teams arrive at Relay For Life with the goal of keeping at least one team member on the track at all times. Prior to the event, teams organize fundraisers to raise money; fundraising may also take place at the campsites during the event. Funds raised from Relay For Life support the American Cancer Society's mission to create a world with more birthdays by helping people stay well, by helping people get well, by finding cures and fighting

Since its beginning in 1985, the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life has developed from one man running around a track for 24 hours to a full-fledged international event taking place in more than 5,000 communities and 20 countries across the globe with nearly 4 million walkers in the United States alone. Relay For Life is a community-based, volunteer-driven event fighting against cancer and the world's largest grassroots fundraising movement.

White Oak Ch. to host World Day of Prayer

Women, men and children in more than 170 countries and regions will celebrate World Day of Prayer, Friday, March 2, 2012. The women of Malaysia have chosen the theme "Let justice prevail." They open the service for 2012 with the greeting "selamat datang"--"peace and welcome"--a reminder that harmony as a people is rooted in peace and welcome. The women name fair and just governance as the basis for peace. The stories chosen by the women of Malaysia give credence to the suffering that empowers their prayer. A clear message emerges: It takes courage, compassion and active engagement for justice to prevail. On March 2, 2012, let us resolve to work with God and with each other to create a world in which each gender, race, culture, religion and state is honored, nurtured and empowered.

This year's service will be observed here on Friday, March 2, at 6:30 p.m., at the White Oak Christian Church.

Invite your friends, family and communities of faith to join the women of Malaysia in prayer and song to support ecumenical efforts toward justice, peace, healing and wholeness. The annual offering supports the work of World Day of Prayer USA and helps meet the needs of families in Malaysia and around the world who are victims of many forms of poverty, violence and injustice.

World Day of Prayer is a worldwide ecumenical movement of Christian women of many traditions who come together to observe a common day of prayer each year on the first Friday in March. World Day of Prayer was founded on the idea that prayer and action are inseparable in the service of God's kingdom. Services begin at sunrise in the Pacific and follow the sun across the globe on the day of celebration. Each year a different country's committee serves as the writers of the World Day of Prayer worship service. For more information contact Carole Hoskins-Price, (606) 743-7929 or the national office of World Day of Prayer USA (www.wdpusa.org).

USPS mailing form rules for electronic subscriptions

The U.S. Postal Service has published a proposed rule that would allow newspapers to list electronic subscriptions on their annual postal statements, the fundamental documentation of weekly newspaper circulation in the United States. The change would allow newspapers to place on a sworn, official document a form of circulation that is becoming increasingly important to rural papers, partly because of increasingly slow delivery of mailed copies, especially outside the papers' home counties.

"If copies that get poor delivery to distant addresses are sold e subs instead of print copies, they [will] save printing and higher postage of 30-60 cents per copy, depending on weight and distance," explained Max Heath, postal specialist for the National Newspaper Association, the largest organization for community newspapers in the U.S. The NNA has been lobbying for such a change for four years.

Electronic subscription, as long as they totaled less than 60 percent of total circulation, could help a newspaper qualify for favorable mailing rates for its printed copies. To do that, a paid subscription would have to be sold for no less than 30 percent of the regularly published rate for a print subscription. Many newspapers are selling combination print and electronic subscriptions, but they would not be allowed to double-count them.

Broadway First Church of God

Life greatest tragedy is to lose God and not to miss Him. — F.W. Norwood

Don't let God's mercy pass by you to where you miss Him and never get a chance to experience His love!!

We read scripture from John 12:20-26 where Jesus foretells of his death. In verse 24 he says; except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.

Most of us are familiar with planting seeds and know that if we have one kernel of corn and keep in on the shelf that is all we have, but if we put it in the earth that kernel will rot and from it there will sprout life, a corn stalk that will bear a hundred fold of kernels.

Jesus knew that for this purpose he came into the world to die that life would come to those that would believe on Him. We also need to do like Jesus in a spiritual sense and that is to die out to self so we can have life and bear fruit.

Galatians 2:20 I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me.

The devil makes that a hard pill to swallow because we want to do what we want instead of turning our lives over to Jesus.

Jesus said in verse 26: He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal. We live in the land of opportunity where with a little investment we can start a business and make a good living for ourselves. By investing a little we can gain a lot.

That principle works spiritually as well. Remember there was a rich young ruler who came to Christ an ask what he needed to do to inherit eternal life. Jesus told him to keep the commandments. He replied that he had kept those from his youth up, what lack I yet?

Jesus said "If thou wilt be perfect, go sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me."

Scripture says he went away sorrowful; for he had great possessions. He was not willing to give up his way of life to follow after Jesus.

It is no different today, people don't want to change their lives in order to have a relationship with God. It might be your family, job, friends, your status in life or anything else the devil will tell you that is more important than giving you heart to God.

Apostle Paul before being saved was a religious leader in his day, an important man with authority; but after being saved he suffered many things for preaching the gospel like being whip, put in prison, stoned and left for dead, and shipwrecked just to name a few.

However, he wrote in Philippians 3:7-8: But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ. Yea doubtless, and I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord: for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ. Is the reason you are not willing to change your life be worth it?

Jesus said in Matthew 16:26: For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul? If we could open the pits of hell and ask those there what is important, I'm sure there reply would be to take the opportunity when Jesus knocks on our heart's door.

Are you willing to invest in the salvation that Jesus is willing to give you? Come worship with us, we preach about things like this.

The presence of the Lord was so real in our service Sunday, we enjoyed the testimonies of many with a special song from Sue Perkins. We are growing steadily and invite you to worship with us.

Our worship times are: Sunday school at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11 a.m., Sunday evening at 6 p.m., and Wednesday evening at 6 p.m. with Brother Kenneth DeHaven.

For prayer requests or comments visit our facebook page, Broadway First Church of God, or email me at the address karleelam@hotmail.com. We will be glad to hear from you.

Don't forget about our Youth Rally on March 18 with Jeff Johnson. A Youth Praise Band will be there as well. Until next week, may the Lord bless you is our prayer.

Dustin Jenkins in revival at Index Church March 4-7

Dustin Jenkins will be at Index Community Church Sunday-Wednesday, March 4-7, for singing and preaching. Service Sunday morning will start at 11 a.m. All evening services will start at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

Dustin was born to a family of loving parents, Robert and Robin Jenkins. Although his dad came from the busier city life of Cleveland, Tennessee, the family heritage of his mother just one generation earlier was found deep within the Appalachian mountains.

Dustin began his musical journey at 15 months old, sitting behind a toy piano and picking out melodies from television shows and commercials. By the age of 12, he was traveling every weekend with gospel groups.

Then at the age of 16, Dustin was given the opportunity to enter full time Gospel Music with a famous family group, known as the Wilburns. There he performed nearly 300 dates within a calendar year. Dustin served as the pianist for the Wilburns during the years of 2000 and 2001.

Later in 2005 Dustin became the pianist for the Legendary Stamps Quartet. Several years before Dustin's tenure with the Stamps, they served as a background quartet for Elvis Presley, during the final seven years of his life and career.

Finally, in late 2009, Dustin had the opportunity to travel with Mike and Kelly Bowling, both formerly of the Crabb Family. Although this was only for a short time, Dustin began to reminisce the memories and love for the country and gospel sounds that had been present since before his birth in the culture of his family.

Dustin now resides in Tennessee with his wife,Carolynn Jenkins.

MORGAN COUNTY HOMEMAKERS

WEST LIBERTY HOMEMAKERS

Even though it was a cold, snowy night on Friday, Feb. 10, 2012, the West Liberty Homemakers had their regular meeting at 7 p.m. at the Barry Kiger Memorial Building.

The President, Nettie Goodpaster, welcomed everyone and thanked them for coming out on such a bad night.

The devotion was given entitled "Much for Little".

The President thanked everyone that had helped with the Blood Drive on February 2, 2012. All other business was taken care.

The mail out lesson on Energy was discussed.

The group enjoyed making Valentines for the residents of West Liberty Nursing Home. Amanda Pack will deliver the Valentines to the residents of the Nursing Home on Valentine's Day.

Door prize was given and delicious refreshments were served to Nell Adkins, Nancy Brandt, Nettie Goodpaster, Sharon Lykins, Cricket Cantrell, Flo McKenzie and her niece, Abby, Amelia Caskey, Dalton Adkins and the hostesses Amanda Adkins and Karen Pack.

Inmate found dead in his cell at EKCC early Tues. morning

Kentucky State Police from Post 8 Morehead, were summoned to Eastern Kentucky Correctional Complex at West Liberty early Tuesday morning to investigate the death of an inmate.

Captain Terry Jenkins at EKCC reported that Cornelius J. Monk was found unresponsive in this cell by his cellmate at approximately 8:05 a.m.

Mr. Jenkins was pronounced dead at 9:00 a.m. by Morgan County Coroner Raymond Vancleve and next of kin were notified by the EKCC staff.

An autopsy was scheduled Wednesday at the State Medical Examiner's office in Frankfort. No foul play is suspected.

The death remains under investigation by Detective Toby Gardner.

THEY HUNG MY LORD

They hung my Lord at Calvary. They gave Him bitter gall to drink. Forgive them Father was His plea, and sinner He'll forgive you today. Jesus came to this earth, to bare the sins of the world. Someday He's coming back again, to claim the ones that have lived for Him. Sinner won't you stop and think, about the only Son of God who gave His life upon calvary's cross so this old world would not be lost.

Still A Bad Idea

This is not the time to add another state university

Reprinted from
The Ashland Independent

The unanimous decision by the Morehead State University Board of Regents to oppose House Bill 260, which would make the University of Pikeville a state-supported university, is the right one, and not just because MSU now receives many of its students from Pike and other counties near the small college and has the most to lose by having UPike become part of the state university system.

However while they have not been as vocal as Morehead in their opposition to HB 260, we suspect the University of Kentucky, the University of Louisville and other regional state universities and the state's community and technical colleges also oppose adding another school to the statewide system. After all it doesn't take a genius to recognize that when you have a financial pie that already is too small to adequately meet the higher education needs of the state, it would be foolish to add another piece to that pie.

With state funding for higher education down by almost $100 million since 2007, and with Gov. Steve Beshear's proposed budget calling for even deeper cuts, "What sense does it make to add another person to the state's education needs?" asked Paul Goodpaster, vice president of MSU board of regents.

The answer to the question is an easy one: No sense at all.

Of course, Speaker of the House Greg Stumbo is not proposing funding UPike with general revenue funds. Instead, he wants to use coal severance tax funds to help the small college located high on a hill overlooking Pikeville. That has generated opposition from another eastern Kentucky county. Recognizing that using coal severance tax to help fund UPike would mean less funds for other counties, the Harlan County Fiscal Court and Rowan County Fiscal Court have adopted resolutions opposing HB 260.

Given the state's continuing financial woes and the opposition of MSU and other eastern Kentucky counties, one would think HB 260 would quickly be rejected by the 2012 General Assembly, but the bill is sponsored by Stumbo and former Gov. Paul Patton, who still has a lot of influence in Frankfort, and is the president of UPike. In short, the bill has some fairly influential support.

Pikeville is located in the heart of a region that has a woefully undereducated adult population. That's a strong argument for adding a state university to the region, but now is definitely not the time to do it. Instead of adding a new state university, legislators should be looking at ways to better fund the existing state schools.

The Judge's Corner

By Tim Conley
Judge Executive

Hello from Judge Tim Conley, wife Tammy, staff and employees:

I came to work at 5:30 a.m. this morning because I had business meetings in Frankfort today. While sitting here at my desk thinking about my Judge's Corner article, I started thinking about that jar of canned sausage I saw on a counter while I was out looking at roads in the Ezel and Maytown communities a few days ago.

I stopped by E.T. Hall's residence for a visit. He was on the phone setting up a church breakfast. After we visited a few minutes, he went to his basement and brought back a jar of sausage that he and his wife had previously canned.

I think food is much healthier for us if we prepare our own meats and garden vegetables. We do not have the unhealthy additives. Food will last longer and taste better if it is canned and stored in a utility closet, basement or cellar where it is dark and cool. Jars are reusable, whereas cans just fill up the trash bin or recycling bin.

I remember when I was a young boy living up Honeymoon Hollow, we would grind sausage through a hand crank meat grinder, and then Mommy would can it for later use. With just the right amount of sage, the sausage was so good.

The hams of the hog would also be taken to the smoke house. That was not for smoking cigarettes. It was where you prepared meat. The hams were rubbed with salt and cured so there would be meat throughout the winter and into the spring.

I can hardly wait until Saturday morning to open that jar of sausage, heat it in a cast iron skillet, fix a couple of eggs gravy and biscuits. I just remembered that homemade peach freezer jam that my mother-in-law and father-in-law made that is in my freezer. Yum, yum yum.. Breakfast is ready!

You can reach me by writing to Judge Executive Tim Conley, 450 Prestonsburg St., West Liberty, KY 41472, by calling 606-743-3897 or by e-mailing the address mcfctc@gmail.com.

P.S. Thank you to everyone for all the nice phone calls and birthday cards and all of the birthday wishes, Mommy Conley. And thank you to Tammy Cole for sharing the wonderful story of The Three Trees.

Bridge Funds ...

The funds are included in a $2.2 million EDA investment package for Kentucky to help maintain and expand critical infrastructure in the wake of severe flooding in 2010.

During the flooding last year, the bridge to be replaced was inundated for 48 days from backwater from Cave Run Lake.

"The grants will not only help rebuild critical infrastructure following flood devastation, but will also help save and create jobs in the rural communities," Bryson said. "Also included in the funding package is a $1.6 million allocation for Adair County, for construction of a sludge conditioning system at its wastewater treatment facility."

"The grants will not only help rebuild critical infrastructure following flood devastation, but will also help save and create jobs in the rural communities," Bryson estimated the two Kentucky projects will support more than 1,500 jobs — 65 in Morgan and 1,450 in Adair, old 25th District represented by Republican Robert Stivers.

Likewise, the 71st House District represented by Rep. John Will Stacy, which was changed in the redistricting bill, will remain the same as in the 2002 bill and includes, Morgan, Menifee, and parts of Wolfe and Rowan counties.

The House redistricting bill adopted by the House and Senate earlier in the current legislative session was ruled unconstitutional because it allowed some districts to vary more than 5 percent from the ideal population size and divided more counties into separate legislative districts than necessary.

Redistricting takes place every 10 years in accordance with population shifts reflected in the U.S. Census.

Ramrodding UPike proposal would be a bad move for Kentucky

By David V. Hawpe
Reprinted From
The Lexington Herald-Leader

The audacity of rushing the University of Pikeville into the state higher education system, past every sensible objection, is breathtaking.

Yes, it would allow former Gov. Paul Patton to organize one final, open-ended money dump for his city, at taxpayer expense.

However, it also would dump decades worth of carefully considered, and presumably settled, strategic higher education policy, adopted to prevent costly duplication of services and programs.

Using coal severance-tax money to lower UPike's tuition to public campus levels is nothing more than an opening ante. Patton, or one of his successors as the institution's president, will come to Frankfort every two years, demanding more cash for more people, programs, and facilities in order to achieve "parity" with the rest of the state system.

The argument will be that mountain kids deserve no less than students elsewhere. Never mind that every other institution in an already-underfunded state system will pay the bill for this budgetary blackjacking.

A few weeks of study is ludicrous, if the General Assembly really wants to understand UPike's fiscal and physical conditions, before positioning it to demand the huge future outlays needed to remake it as a full-service, four-year public campus.

No new data are needed to show that Kentucky — a state in deep financial trouble and chronically short of money — can't afford another such institution. If it could, Pikeville would have to get in line with other cities that have an equal or better case to make, including Owensboro, Paducah and Somerset.

House Speaker Greg Stumbo and Patton say the Eastern Kentucky coalfields deserve a four-year public university. They fail to mention that Pikeville is at one end of Southeastern Kentucky and not geographically situated to serve all three separate mountain coalfields in the Big Sandy, Kentucky, and Cumberland river valleys.

UPike will end up primarily serving part of the Big Sandy Valley and a swath of southern West Virginia.

A more sensible approach would be to build on the public-private University of the Cumberlands Partnership, centrally based at Hazard, or to use any available state funds for scholarships coalfield students could use at any public or private school of their choice, including UPike.

Kentucky's state university presidents, who know what this educational Anschluss (legislatively sanctioned takeover or division of an established system) would mean, certainly oppose the UPike plan.

They haven't publicly railed against it, but their caution is understandable.

Stumbo is in a position to take legislative and budgetary umbrage at any dissent. For merely expressing itself, carefully and thoughtfully, the Morehead State University board was vilified as "petty" and "small" (by Stumbo).

I speak for myself — not for that board, on which I serve — when I say that Stumbo, whose skill and insight I long have admired and applauded, was unfair in his criticism.

I'm also disappointed that Patton's use of statistics to make the UPike case requires such close scrutiny, as Bell County Judge-Executive Albey Brock proved in a KET debate this week.

Stumbo and Patton are exceptional public servants, but like all of us, they are capable of mistakes. That's what turning UPike into You Pay would be — a costly mistake with broad and enduring consequences.

David Hawpe, a native of the Big Sandy region, is a member of the Morehead State University Board of Trustees and is a retired editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

less than $250 and no more than $500, as well as a possible prison sentence of up to 12 months.

"This ordinance covers anything that meets the definition of a firearm," Hensley said. "It will also include air rifles and slingshots — but it won't infringe upon citizens' rights to protect themselves and others or their property with guns."

Council members again discussed possibility of a natural gas rate increase, which Mayor Jim Rupe said would be implemented as needed.

"The gas department is now operating in the red," Mayor Rupe said in January. "We have not seen the amount of gas revenue that we have in the past, due to this winter's mild weather."

Gas rates currently include a customer charge of $10 during the summer months when gas use typically decreases. Winter rates encompass the current gas cost per MCF as purchased from Jefferson Gas plus $3.75.

The previous year's customer charge of $10.50 was lowered to $10, with each additional MCF costing $9.50-$10.

Assistant Fire Chief Jamie Phipps presented a report regarding the fire department's revised standard operating guidelines, which now prohibit tobacco use on department property.

Phipps also classified the department's junior firefighter program as a success, as three high school students recently joined the department along with two previous youth recruits.

Fire Chief Brian Scalf discussed the possibility of installing a rapid access system known as the "Knox-Box," which would store keys to buildings where frequent alarms originate.

The boxes would be installed outside the buildings and could only be opened by fire department members via an access code that would be entered into a computer installed in fire service vehicles.

Phipps noted that the Knox-Box system is currently utilized by fire and police department members in Lexington, but that local business owners wishing to participate in the program must purchase their own tax-deductible boxes.

Mayor Rupe commended fire department members for their recruitment efforts and community involvement.

"The officers are keeping up the department's enthusiasm and attracting new members," Mayor Rupe said. "Everyone is doing a great job. Keep up the good work!"

Before adjournment, Councilwoman Belinda Jordan requested that the council enter into executive session. No action was taken on the matter.

The West Liberty City Council meets 5 p.m. the fourth Monday of each month in the council room at City Hall.

Horse Cave (Hart County) Water Company, Monroe County Water District, Wallins (Harlan County) Water System (managed by Black Mountain Utility District) and Williamsburg (Whitley County) Water Department.

Funding for the Capacity Development Assistance Program for Small Systems is made possible through funds set aside by the Commonwealth of Kentucky from the Drinking Water State Revolving Fund (DWSRF) capitalization grant. The DWSRF program was established by the Safe Drinking Water Act Amendments of 1996 to provide low-interest loans to public water systems for infrastructure improvements needed to produce safe drinking water. The program emphasizes the prevention of drinking water contamination by allowing states to reserve a portion of their grants to fund activities that encourage enhanced water system management and source water protection.

The program, which is in its first year, is a cooperative venture of the Kentucky Division of Water and the nonprofit Community Action of Kentucky (through the Rural Community Assistance Program). The two agencies worked together to identify small drinking water systems in need of capacity development assistance based on factors that are not regulated, such as equipment, training and office management.

and Lawrence. The facility is being erected at a cost of $3.6 million with Jonathan Whitt of JSW Farms of West Liberty contributing $1.5 million. Whitt will manage the facility, which will include a training program and employ 30 people initially.

The project is being developed under the auspices of the Morgan-Wolfe Agricultural Industrial Board, which joined together to plan the project and acquire the 300-acre site with funds provided by the State Agricultural Development Board, which distributes state tobacco buyout funds to projects designed to improve the rural economy on an area basis.

The project at Helechawa will provide a marketing outlet for Eastern Kentucky's beef, sheep, hog, and goat producers.

Planners say the facility will also slaughter and process animals for individual customers while providing cut and processing instruction and will maintain the meat's integrity. In addition, the facility will package "private label" meat for companies.

In The Line Of Duty

By Linda Oakley

No good cop ever pins on a badge and says, "I hope I get to shoot somebody today."

When he gets up in the morning, likely as not, he will say, "God help me to do a good job today. Help me make the right decisions. Bring me home safely to my family."

He will pull his pants on, but before he dons his shirt he will strap on his armor — because there is a chance that at some point in his career someone will want to kill him.

He will have good days, great days! He will be able to help rescue a child into the world or rescue one from an abusive home. He will be able to calm and elderly woman's fears when she hears a prowler on a dark night. Pull someone from a wreck, restore calm to a volatile situation. Protect and serve. Pride, integrity, guts.

There will be bad days too. He will arrive at the scene and knowing it is too late for the little boy — same age as his own little boy — who lies in the street. He knows immediately that the little guy is gone because the dust from the street has settled on his beautiful open eyes.

He will walk into a home where a man is screaming in agony because the gun he was cleaning had a round in the chamber. He did not know it until it went off and the bullet entered the head of his wife, who was sitting on the couch nursing their baby.

He will have to go to the home of friends and tell them their son was killed in an auto accident.

He will respond to the scene where a mother put her baby in the car, started it and then went back inside for something. She forgot to raise the garage door when she started her car. She and her little one both perished because of it — as did her father, who came to check on them.

He will be thrown up on and speed on, spat on and kicked. Almost ran down when he is directing traffic around an accident. He will respond to an alarm drop in the wee hours knowing that his backup is miles away. As brave as he is, his knees knock as he enters the building because he knows it could be his last call.

He pulls over a car on a black night and walks to the vehicle. As the driver's window goes down he has no idea if it is just a sleepy driver or if a weapon will come out of the window. Yes, he gets scared sometimes. We expect him to come and save us when we call, but he is, after all, just a man.

Then, on the worst day of his life, he is put in a situation that leaves him no choice but to protect himself and the people around him. He has been taught to not pull his weapon unless he is prepared to use it. In that case, he must use it in a manner that stops. Not slows down, but stops. It will haunt him for the rest of his life, even though he did what he had to do.

I have known a lot of cops in my life. I am married to one of the best who ever put on a uniform. I know of what I write. In the 1980s in Yellow Springs, Ohio, my cop responded to a call. A young man had stabbed his father to death and was on the run. When my cop got there he located the assailant and gave chase on foot. They were in a residential area where there were homes, schools and kids. The young man brandished a knife and my husband drew his gun, knowing he was going to have to stop him before more damage was done.

It was not something he wanted to do, but he had taken an oath. What if the young man escaped him and hopped a fence to a home or a school yard?

My cop was a master marksman. He took aim and gave one last order for the man to drop his weapon. The young man made a decision that day that changed his destiny. He put his weapon down. He saved his own life.

That scenario plays out a thousand times a day across the country. Bad situations, decisions made, lives changed. Sometimes the outcome is heart-wrenching for all involved. Wives lose husbands, children lose daddies and fathers lose sons. Hearts are broken all the way around.

Even the cop's heart is broken because when he pinned on his badge that morning he never, ever wanted to be put into a situation where he would have to do what he did. But he stands in a thin blue line that lays between us and harm's way.

We have the rest of our days sitting in the safety of our homes, sipping sweet tea, to troubleshoot his actions. Not him, though. In the time it takes to blink an eye, he must react. He stands in a place where, thankfully, most of us will never have to stand. He stands in the line of duty and he has a split second to decide.

Franklin ...

Music Profiles magazine's Promoter Profile.

The festival actually started out as a backyard barbecue at the Franklin home on Riverside Drive many years ago. Several friends and family would gather for the event, and there would always be musicians there to provide entertainment.

The gathering eventually outgrew the Franklin's backyard and was moved to the Old Mill Park across the street. Lanny worked tirelessly to build the event which has become one of the biggest events in Morgan County. He had a great love for the music, the performers and the fans.

Franklin will also be remembered for his interest in photography, a hobby he had followed since his youth. He photographed many weddings and family events as well as nature and landscape scenes from the area. Through his photography he recorded a history of his family and the West Liberty-Morgan County area. One of his greatest accomplishments as a photographer was having a photograph representing Appalachia published in Life magazine. He submitted many photographs for publication to The Licking Valley Courier throughout the years.

Not only was he a photographer, but he was a teacher. He was always eager to share his skills and knowledge of photography with anyone having an interest in photography. Franklin enjoyed teaching film processing techniques in his darkroom at home. Lanny kept abreast as the digital age found its way into photography and soon gained skills and information to gain share with friends.

He and his family owned and operated Towne Cinema Theater, in West Liberty, for over thirty years before selling the business. As a young man, Franklin worked in the Rex Theater for the late Jay and Edra Burton.

Lanny Franklin's accomplishments and interests were many, but his pride and joy was his family--his wife, Scottyee Burton Franklin, their children, grandchildren, and family who were always a part of his ventures... whether it was photographing a wedding, running the theater, planning and preparing a meal for the many musicians from near and afar that entertained at Old Mill Bluegrass Festival down through the years.

IF I COULD Birthday Remembrance

In Loving Memory Of Gerald Dennis Clevenger on his birthday March 1

There are things in life I cannot change although I wish I could. I'd bring you back or go to you. Oh, only if I could. I'd love to sit and talk with you. To be with you all day. But thoughts like this bring sadness. And tears get in the way. I realize so often how thoughts of you collide with everything I do each day and keeps my soul alive. God gives me comfort in the things I know are yet to be. He gives me strength and whispers, "Your child is here with me." I couldn't count the many ways that I've been blessed by you. So many times you made me smile with just a wink or two. It's hard to say just what you did or how it came about. All that I know is with your love I never went without. I hope you know in all things you're thought of and I would do anything to be with you. Oh, only if I could.

Remembered and sadly missed by all your family.

God bless you son in heaven. Someday we'll meet you up there around God's great white throne and will be happy together forever more.

(Submitted by your mother, Alpha Clevenger)

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of

Gerald Dennis Clevenger

You were a precious child, a blessing from above. I've adored you from the start and your little foot prints touched my heart. A single teardrop represents the millions I have cried. My life never the same since you died. I wish you could have stayed longer with me. I'd watch you grow into all you could be. Although we are apart. You are always in my heart. I dream of a joyful time when we will be reunited once again. Thoughts of you make me smile. You will always be my forever child.

Sadly missed by your mother, Alpha Clevenger; brothers, Barry and Dempsey; sister, Joy; and others.

Love, ever true

By Carla L. Holbrook

In loving memory of

Lowell B. Holbrook

Feb. 26, 1934 • Feb. 8, 2007

What a beautiful thought of you have I seen thinking of you as an angel so handsome and bright with joy and love.

Love can keep anybody or anything alive this I know for it's God's love who's kept me alive after my Daddy died now five years ago.

And I know it's love, ever true how I know how it feels when I thought how was gone oh how God's always been there.

When Dad first took sick in September of '03 when he began to smother to death how I learned from there love can hurt.

It hurt to see my Dad suffer in a sense I suffered too and still to this day do I suffer.

But thank God it don't hit me as hard as it use to but there's still hurt, pain, and tears.

Love is like a guardian angel that's so true and will always stand by your side thru it all.

And how I believe there's been more than one guardian angel sent from God for my sake.

Dad and I have spent 16 years of my life together and how I wish it could've lasted longer.

But Daddy was so sick it was a miracle he saw me reach to 16.

My love is so pure and ever true I'm glad he's in Heaven, knowing he's no longer suffering.

I still just wait for the day to come when my name is called in the roll up yonder.

Love is like a golden rose it can endure time, it stands pure and true, also the silver thorns protects if from all evil of Satan. I've watered and kept the golden rose of mine and my Father's love alive after all these years, just like all the other beautiful precious flowers in my heart.

I know love endures and God had taught me that with love, ever true. (pd)

Sgt. Adkins — a 13-year police department veteran — was placed on paid administrative leave pending an internal investigation and a criminal investigation regarding the discharge of his weapon led by WLPD Patrolman Tim Smedley and Sheriff Mickey Whitt.
Chief Hensley noted that, to his knowledge, no incidents of this nature have taken place in WLPD history.
School district spokesperson Jennifer Salyer said that WLES teachers and staff members immediately ushered the students on the playground inside the school before the facility was put on lockdown.
Salyer also noted that WLES Principal Vickie Oldfield assured parents that students were safe via the school's automated calling system that afternoon, and also visited classrooms to discuss the incident with the children the following day.
"The school district is very pleased with how the WLES principal, teachers and staff handled this situation," Salyer said. "We are proud of how everyone pulled together to ensure student safety and effective communications."
Counseling will be available to all WLES students and employees as requested.
Funeral services for Jimmy Hill were conducted Saturday, Feb. 25, at Potter Funeral Home. Burial followed at the Oliver Haney Cemetery located at Stacy Fork.
Hill retired from Eastern Kentucky Correctional Complex on Feb. 1, with the rank of lieutenant correctional officer. He previously served in the United States Army. In addition to his wife, he is survived by two sons and two stepsons.

display area will open at 5:00 p.m. and continue until 7:30 p.m. Workshops will begin at 6:30 p.m. and conclude at 8:00 p.m. The evening will finish with door prize drawings spotlighting $25 gift certificates to 10 different local businesses.
The free meal will be prepared by the Morgan Elliott 4-H Shooting Sports Club and will feature grilled hamburgers and sweet potato fries! The display area will highlight over 40 local organizations and agencies with resources to share in our community.
The event will offer classes of interest for everyone (see below). For more information, contact the Morgan County Extension Service at 743-3292.
Bee Keeping Basics — Interested in beekeeping? Join Dr. Shawn Wright, UK Extension Specialist, who will cover the basics of hive management, supplies needed, and available resources.
Growing Great Tomatoes — Focusing on great tasting heirloom tomatoes, UK Horticulture Technician Crystal Sparks, will share how to successfully grow tomatoes from transplant to harvest.
Tracking Money on the Farm — How do you know what part of your farming operation is making you profit or costing you money? With increasing input costs, it is more important than ever to be able to financially understand your operation. Wolfe County Ag Agent Daniel Wilson will explain easy, ready to go, techniques that will "show you the money!"
Raised Bed Gardening — Raised bed gardens are a great way to grow lots of healthy food in a small space. Former UK Summer Intern and current MSU

Ag Student Lacy May will demonstrate her expertise in creating raised beds from start to finish.
Seed Saving — Have a favorite heirloom or open pollinated vegetable seed you want to continue for many seasons ahead? Learn from UK Master Gardener and local gardener extraordinaire Toni Welch Edelman how to make this successfully happen for generations ahead.
Preparing Country Hams — Yes, we all enjoy country ham and biscuits during the Sorghum Festival, but come learn the process of the cure from start to finish. Find out how to have your own delicious country ham and biscuit, plus learn about opportunities for youth to take advantage of this 4-H project. For adults and youth alike, this class will be taught by 4-H Livestock leaders Rita Allen and Stephanie Lacy, along with 4-H Livestock Club members.
Youth Activities — Youth will have the opportunity to prepare four different crafts that can be entered in the Morgan County Fair in August for a chance to win fair premium money. Also, they will have the opportunity to make their own herb garden, which can be entered in the fair as well. This is open for all youth ages; however, ages 6 and under need to have a parent with them. Class to be led by 4-H Crafts volunteer Billie Cook and 4-H Teen Club members.

Couponing 101 — As they adapt to the struggling economy, many families are looking for ways to reduce family spending without decreasing their current standard of living. Through meal planning and using coupons, families can save on their monthly grocery bill. Taking time to plan grocery shopping can help save your family money too. Instructor: Brooke Jenkins-Howard, Magoffin County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences.
Other classes to be offered may include Plate It Up Ky Proud Cooking, Agri Tourism Basics, Quilting (Paper Piecing), and Managing Your Dollars in Tough Times.

NOTICE OF SALE
COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY
MORGAN CIRCUIT COURT
CASE NO. 11-CI-00136
KENTUCKY HOUSING CORPORATION, PLAINTIFF
VS.
ADA BENTON, DEFENDANTS

Pursuant to the Judgment and Order of Sale in the Morgan Circuit Court, entered on January 25, 2012, in the above styled action, Honorable Robert L. Caummisar, Master Commissioner of the Morgan Circuit Court, shall proceed to offer for sale, under the following terms and conditions, at the front door of the Courthouse, West Liberty, Morgan County, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 9th day of March, 2012 at or near the hour of 2:40 p.m., the following described property, lying and being in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, County of Morgan and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at a steel stake at the eastern edge of the Chalmer Benton Road; thence in an Easterly direction for a distance of 115 to a steel stake; thence in a Southerly direction for a distance of 132 feet to a steel stake; thence in a Westerly direction for a distance of 115 feet to a steel stake at the edge of Chalmer Benton Road; thence in a Northerly direction along the right of way of Chalmer Benton Road for a distance of 132 feet to a steel stake at the point of beginning.

Also conveyed herein and made subject to the terms of this Mortgage is the following manufactured home (mobile home) described as: 2005 Cavalier, Model: Engelwood 28460, Serial/VIN No. CV05AL0266358AB, which has been permanently affixed to the real estate described above, and is to be classified as real property and be assessed as such by the county tax assessor's office.

Being the same property conveyed to Ada Benton, unmarried, by deed dated May 13, 2005, of record in Deed Book 201, Page 607, in the Office of the Clerk of Morgan County, Kentucky.

Property Address: 184 Chalmer Benton Road, West Liberty, Morgan County, Kentucky, 41472

The aforementioned real estate can not be divided without materially impairing its value and shall be sold as a whole. The real estate shall be sold on a credit of thirty (30) days, with the privilege of the purchaser to pay for bid in cash in full, and if not paid in full then the purchaser shall make a cash down payment of at least ten percent (10%) of the purchase price to cover the costs of the judicial sale; and the purchaser shall execute a bond for the remainder of the purchase price, with good surety thereon, to be approved by the Master Commissioner of this Court, and bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of the sale, until paid; additionally, a lien shall be retained upon the real estate to be sold herein, to secure the payment of the balance of the purchase price within thirty (30) days of the date of sale upon which execution may be levied by the Master Commissioner of this Court.

In the event that the successful bidder is the Plaintiff to this action, which has been adjudged to have a lien on that particular tract or parcel of real or personal property bid upon, then and in that event, said party shall not be required to make any cash deposit or bond.

If any purchaser at said sale shall fail to immediately make cash payment or execute a bond, then the Commissioner shall declare the next highest bidder the purchaser of the real estate.

Upon default of payment of the balance of the purchase price within thirty (30) days, the Master Commissioner shall immediately resell the property upon the same terms and conditions set out herein upon proper legal notice. The ten percent (10%) of purchase price paid to the Master Commissioner shall be used to pay the costs of the sale which the purchaser failed to complete.

The hereinabove described real property shall be sold free and clear of the claims, interests, liens and encumbrances of all parties herein, except restrictions and easements appearing of record, in the Morgan County Court Clerk's Office.

The risk of loss for the subject property shall pass to the purchaser on the date of sale. Possession of the premises shall pass to the purchaser upon payment of the purchase price and delivery of deed.

The purchaser shall be required to purchase fire and extended coverage insurance on any improvements to the real property, from the date of sale until the purchase price is paid in full to the extent of the Court-appraised value of the improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner of the Morgan Circuit Court or the Plaintiff herein.

The Defendants, their agents, employees, successors or assigns shall vacate the mortgaged premises immediately upon the confirmation of the Master Commissioner's Sale.

The purchaser shall be required to assume and pay all taxes assessed such property for the year 2012 and all subsequent years. This property shall be sold subject to any ad valorem and real property taxes not delinquent as of the date of sale. The attorney of record must furnish the Master Commissioner with a statement that there are no unpaid County and City delinquent taxes or tax liens, and assignments of any such liens, against the property. Being the same property conveyed to Lisa M. Brown by Deed dated October 3, 2006 of record in Deed Book 206, Page 589 in the Office of the Clerk of Morgan County, Kentucky.

Property Address: 243 Park Hill Blvd., West Liberty, Morgan County, Kentucky

The aforementioned real estate can not be divided without materially impairing its value and shall be sold as a whole. The real estate shall be sold on a credit of thirty (30) days, with the privilege of the purchaser to pay for bid in cash in full, and if not paid in full then the purchaser shall make a cash down payment of at least ten percent (10%) of the purchase price to cover the costs of the judicial sale; and the purchaser shall execute a bond for the remainder of the purchase price, with good surety thereon, to be approved by the Master Commissioner of this Court, and bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of the sale, until paid; additionally, a lien shall be retained upon the real estate to be sold herein, to secure the payment of the balance of the purchase price within thirty (30) days of the date of sale upon which execution may be levied by the Master Commissioner of this Court.

In the event that the successful bidder is the Plaintiff to this action, which has been adjudged to have a lien on that particular tract or parcel of real or personal property bid upon, then and in that event, said party shall not be required to make any cash deposit or bond.

If any purchaser at said sale shall fail to immediately make cash payment or execute a bond, then the Commissioner shall declare the next highest bidder the purchaser of the real estate.

Upon default of payment of the balance of the purchase price within thirty (30) days, the Master Commissioner shall immediately resell the property upon the same terms and conditions set out herein upon proper legal notice. The ten percent (10%) of purchase price paid to the Master Commissioner shall be used to pay the costs of the sale which the purchaser failed to complete.

The hereinabove described real property shall be sold free and clear of the claims, interests, liens and encumbrances of all parties herein, except restrictions and easements appearing of record, in the Morgan County Court Clerk's Office.

The risk of loss for the subject property shall pass to the purchaser on the date of sale. Possession of the premises shall pass to the purchaser upon payment of the purchase price and delivery of deed.

The purchaser shall be required to purchase fire and extended coverage insurance on any improvements to the real property, from the date of sale until the purchase price is paid in full to the extent of the Court-appraised value of the improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner of the Morgan Circuit Court or the Plaintiff herein.

The Defendants, their agents, employees, successors or assigns shall vacate the mortgaged premises immediately upon the confirmation of the Master Commissioner's Sale.

The purchaser shall be required to assume and pay all taxes assessed such property for the year 2012 and all subsequent years. This property shall be sold subject to any ad valorem and real property taxes not delinquent as of the date of sale. The attorney of record must furnish the Master Commissioner with a statement that there are no unpaid County and City delinquent taxes or tax liens, and assignments of any such liens, against the property. MORGAN COUNTY BASKETBALL

Cougars late season run ends with loss to East Carter in district tournament

Lasic finishes with 18 points, 11 boards in final game

By David Patrick

For Morgan County coach Matthew Perry, hopes were high for not only a first round win the 62nd district tournament, but also a district championship.

After all, the Cougars had won eight of their last 10 games to close the regular season, including a blowout of Menifee County on senior night. Couple that with a home and away sweep of first-round tourney foe East Carter, and Morgan County coaches, players and fans had every right to be optimistic.

But there's a downside to a sweep of a district rival, especially when that opponent is equal in talent. Winning a third straight is difficult, especially come tournament time.

Such was the case in last week's post-season opener at Elliott County. Despite an 18 point, 11 rebound performance from senior Jagos Lasic, Morgan found itself doomed by late turnovers and exceptional free-throw shooting (21-of-23) from the Raiders. In the end, it was East that survived and advanced with the 51 - 44 win.

"It's difficult to lose because I wanted to badly for these kids to get to Morehead (16th region tournament)," Perry said. "We gave great effort but just turned the ball over too many times down the stretch and missed open shots. You can't afford to do that against good teams and East made us pay."

Things started well for Morgan in the first quarter. Lasic and Jordan Perry each hit three-point baskets less than four minutes in to stake Morgan to a 6 - 3 lead. A Jordan Whitt layup extended the lead to five at the 3:10 mark before Lasic and Ross closed the quarter with field goals for a 12 - 10 advantage.

Morgan came out with more of the same intensity in the second period. Jordan Whitt took a perfect interior pass from Jesse Clinger and scored inside for an 16 - 12 lead. Lasic then drove the lane and hit a spinning banker off the glass for a six-point cushion. Whitt then scored yet another layup for a 20 - 12 lead before Jordan Perry beat the Raider press and buried a jumper for an eight point advantage—Morgan's largest of the game.

But East wasn't fazed by the Cougars' strong early play. Coach Brandon Baker's team rallied and closed the first half on a 16 - 7 run, thanks to nine points from Dylan Genung and a three-pointer by Bradley Marsh. The Raiders led 28 - 27 at the break.

Both teams struggled offensively in the third quarter, with Lasic scoring six of Morgan's ten 10 points. The Cougar big man gave his team its only lead of the period (35 - 34) with a pull up jumper at the 4:17 mark. But three-point baskets from Conner Robinson and Jordan Burchett offset Lasic's offense as the teams were knotted at 37-all heading to the final eight minutes.

Morgan quickly took the lead (39 - 37) in the fourth when Mikie Whisman converted a layup off an assist from Lasic. But East responded with a three-point bucket from Quinn Huddle to give his team the lead at 40 - 39. Lasic would tie the game for a final time (42 - 42) with a basket off an inbounds play from the baseline. But the Raiders put the game away at the free-throw stripe as Robinson, Huddle and Burchett knocked down a combined nine-of-10 down the stretch. The Cougars' final hope came with a three-point attempt by Jordan Perry with less than 30 seconds remaining. But the ball kicked off the basket and was rebounded by East Carter, bringing an end to Morgan's impressive late season run.

Whitt was the only other Cougar finishing in double-figures with 11 points. Jordan Perry started strong with the first quarter three-pointer, but managed just one basket the rest of the way. As always, Perry's ball-handling and command of the offense provided stability for Morgan, although his shot attempts were limited. Uncharacteristically, Perry failed to get to the free-throw line and finished with a season-low five points.

Genung and Huddle led East with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Following the win over Morgan, East would upset the district's top-seed, West Carter, to claim the 62nd district title.

February fishermen score big in Alamama

Headwaters Bass Club members John Standafer and Greg Potter, winners of the first Renegade Bass Tournament, held on Guntersville Lake (Alabama) Feb.12, display part of their nice catch—a total bag of fish weighing 23 plus lb. Also the team of Jason Gevedon and David Nickell placed 3rd with a 5 bass limit weighing 14.75.

David W. Nickell had one of the most miserable days of fishing of his entire career at the first B.F.L. tournament of the year on Guntersville Lake Feb.11. The temperature was around 28 degrees with 20 mph winds gusting to 30-35 mph. However, he managed to catch three keeper fish, his biggest weighing 9.6 lb. and his second one weighed just over 7 lb. Hang in there, David, you might get a chance to compete with the big boys.

Lady Cougars top East Carter to claim district championship!

Stamper scores 28 points to earn MVP honors

Lady Cougars 62nd District Champs

By David Patrick

When the chips are down come tournament time, you expect seniors to rise to the occasion. Last week in Sandy Hook, Brittany Stamper and Faith Slone certainly did not disappoint.

The dynamic duo combined for 42 points, including a game-high 28 from Stamper, as Morgan laid claim to a 66 - 54 win over East Carter and the 62nd district championship.

"It was a great night for our program," said Lady Cougar head coach Jeff Brown. "We played with incredible effort and intensity, it just all came together at the perfect time. After the game, coach (Hager) Easterlingshook my hand and asked 'where did that come from?' I was really proud of how we responded in such a big game."

The Lady Cougars lit it up from the outset, posting back-to-back 18 point quarters in the first half. Bri Lindon knocked down a pair of three-point baskets early, while Stamper and Slone combined for five field goals in the first eight minutes alone. Cheyenna Ferguson carried the offense in the second period, hitting a three-pointer, a two-point basket and a perfect four-of-four from the free-throw line. Lindon, Slone and Megan Gross also added buckets as Morgan took a 13-point lead at the half.

The Lady Cougars extended their advantage in the third.

Ferguson hit her second three-pointer of the game while Stamper and Slone combined for another 10 points. Meanwhile, the Morgan defense limited East to just two baskets (both from Megan Stickler) in the period. Morgan took a comfortable 51 - 34 lead to the fourth.

As expected, the Lady Raiders had a run coming, scoring a game-high 20 points in the fourth. But the Lady Cougars' lead was never threatened thanks to Stamper, who converted all eight of her free-throw attempts in the fourth quarter to seal the district title.

Stamper was clutch throughout the game, scoring eight in both the first and second periods before tallying 10 in the fourth. Stamper's 28 points was complimented by 14 from Ferguson and 11 by Slone. Lindon got Morgan off to a great start with the aforementioned two three-point baskets to finish with eight points. Whitney Elam had with four points, while Gross tossed in two.

Morgan's district championship was a display of determination and grit, having lost five of its last seven games to finish the regular season. Add to that the fact the Lady Cougars had lost both (61 - 41 and 51 - 39) regular season meetings with East Carter before pulling the district championship upset.

GIRLS' 16TH REGION TOURNAMENT

Lady Cougars' season ends with loss to Rowan

By David Patrick

From the opening tip to the final horn, there was nothing pretty about the Lady Cougars' 42 - 29 loss to Rowan County.

Neither team shot the ball well, with the Lady Vikings' 29 percent somewhat better than Morgan's poor 21 percent clip.

Couple that with the Lady Cougars' 22 turnovers and just one player (Faith Slone) in double figures (11 points), and it was a tough one to watch.

"It was really, really ugly both ways," said Lady Cougar coach Jeff Brown in describing his team and Rowan. "Both teams played very tight and just couldn't get anything going offensively. I think our girls were overwhelmed by the environment and the big crowd. We just couldn't get in any kind of rhythm."

The Lady Cougars managed just two field goals in the first period, while Rowan scored nine on baskets from Kathryn Duff, Faith Conn and Taylor Lewis. The second quarter was a carbon copy with Morgan again scoring two field goals, only to see the Lady Vikings gain some separation with 12 points, including three-point baskets by Kathryn Duff and Becca Duff.

Rowan would lead by eight, 21 - 13, at the intermission.

The Lady Cougars attempted to make a run in third quarter, getting two big baskets from Slone in the paint and a three-pointer by Cheyenna Ferguson, which nearly brought the roof off Veterans Memorial Gym.

But Rowan offset Morgan's point output (9 - 9) thanks to four points from Conn and another three-ball by Kathryn Duff.

From that point on, the Lady Vikings put the game out of reach, despite poor free-throw shooting (six-of-14) down the stretch.

After scoring just four points through the first three quarters, Lewis was clutch in the final eight minutes with two field goals and as many free-throws.

"We simply couldn't guard Lewis," said Brown of the Lady Vikings guard. "She was tough down the stretch and we didn't have an answer."

Lewis finished with 10 points for Rowan to go along with a game-high 15 by Duff. Conn also finished with 10 for Rowan, despite missing six-of-eight attempts from free-throw line.

Slone paced Morgan with 11 points, while Ferguson and Stamper each had seven. Bri Lindon and Whitney Elam added two points apiece.

"Even though we lost, I'm so appreciative that our kids got to play on that kind of stage," Brown said in describing the tournament atmosphere. "The gym was full and both teams had great support. It was especially good for our young players to experience that."

The Lady Cougars finish the season at 11 - 18, including 9 - 13 in region play. Morgan did manage a 5 - 3 mark against district competition, which is a huge positive as Brown prepares for the 2012 - 13 campaign.

Annual ARH CARES Award winners honored

Feb. 21 — Appalachian Regional Healthcare honored employees from across its Kentucky and West Virginia system Feb. 9 in Lexington.

Employee representatives from each ARH community who had been named as their respective hospital's Annual CARES Winner were recognized during the system's Board of Trustees meeting.

Morgan County ARH Hospital's winner is Christina Johnson, a nurse with the Morgan County Home Health Agency, who often goes above and beyond for her patients. Chris recently had a patient whose husband was killed in a car accident during the Christmas Season, leaving the mother with nine minor children.

To ensure the family had a Merry Christmas, Chris championed a gift donation and volunteered her off time to shop for and wrap many of the presents herself.

To be named a CARES Award recipient, the honorees were nominated by their peers or patients in appreciation for their dedication and commitment to exceeding the ARH CARES Standards (Communication, Attentive, Respectful, Environment and Special) in their local community.

Each community has a monthly or quarterly winner. The honorees were not only chosen as the monthly or quarterly winner, but were selected by that community's CARES committee as the person most deserving of the honor of Annual CARES Awards Winner.

"These employees have been recognized as going above and beyond to care for our patients, the communities we serve and their co-workers," ARH President and CEO Jerry W. Haynes said. "We are very proud of each of our CARES winners and sincerely appreciate their dedication to a health system that means so much to our communities."

About Appalachian Regional Healthcare (ARH), a not-for-profit health system serving 350,000 residents across Eastern Kentucky and Southern West Virginia, employs nearly 5,000 people and has a network of more than 600 active and courtesy medical staff members representing various specialties. Firmly committed to its mission of improving the health and promoting the well-being of all people in Eastern Kentucky and Southern West Virginia, in the past 12 months alone, ARH provided nearly $133 million in uncompensated care for the uninsured and underinsured.

MEDICAL Moment

Food Allergy? Or Food Intolerance?

Ellen loved seafood and had eaten shrimp dishes often. This time it was different: her lips started tingling and then swelling, and soon she was finding it difficult to swallow or breathe. Fortunately, her friends acted quickly to get her to the emergency room where she discovered she was having a allergic reaction to the shrimp dip she had just eaten.

Nearly everyone has some negative reaction to some foods on some occasions. The food may cause gas, cramping, an upset stomach or a headache. The rational response is to try to avoid that food at least in the quantity that brought on the reaction.

Allergies are generally much more serious and, as in Ellen's case, can be life threatening. It's important to know the difference between being allergic to a food and having a food intolerance or sensitivity.

A FOOD ALLERGY is an autoimmune reaction. The body's immune system mistakenly identifies a protein or other substance in the food as an invader and over-reacts, producing antibodies to fight it. The most severe reaction, often occurring within seconds, is anaphylaxis: constriction of the airways, a swollen throat, rapid pulse, lightheadedness and shock, with a dramatic drop in blood pressure. Without emergency medical attention, the person can die within minutes.

About 90 percent of allergies are to eight foods: peanuts, tree nuts, eggs, fish, shellfish, milk, soy products and wheat. An allergy typically develops early in life, but many children outgrow their allergies to milk, eggs, soy and wheat. Peanut, tree nut and seafood allergies are more likely to be lifelong. As in Ellen's case, it's also possible for an allergy to develop in adult life.

Exposure to even a small amount of the food can trigger a reaction, and there is no way to predict how severe symptoms will be. Since there is no cure, the only course is to avoid the food in any amount. A person with a food allergy must be careful to read food labels, inquire about ingredients and food preparation when eating away from home, and, in some cases, carry epinephrine for use in emergencies.

A FOOD INTOLERANCE, by contrast, is a reaction of the digestive system. While symptoms (such as stomach pain, cramping and diarrhea) may be similar to those of a food allergy, they usually come on more gradually and are rarely life threatening. Wendy Lykins, APRN

One of the most common, lactose intolerance, occurs because the person lacks the enzyme, lactase, needed to digest lactose, the main sugar in milk and most milk products.

Lacking the enzyme, the body uses bacteria in the intestine to break down lactose, and this process results in gas and the symptoms of bloating, abdominal pain and, in some cases, diarrhea.

Persons with lactose intolerance can usually control their disorder by consuming smaller quantities of milk products or by taking lactase supplements. Persons with a milk allergy, on the other hand, must avoid milk products, even in small amounts.

Another common food intolerance involves a negative reaction to additives such as monosodium glutamate, food colorings, preservatives or sulfites. Sulfites, which can also occur naturally in foods or generated as part of the winemaking process, can cause serious breathing problems in susceptible individuals.

Foods containing naturally occurring substances such as salicylates can trigger symptoms in some persons. Salicylates are found in many fruits, vegetables, nuts, coffee, beer and wine as well as in drugs such as aspirin.

Celiac disease or gluten intolerance involves an immune system reaction that does not involve the production of IgE antibodies. As a result, it is an intolerance rather than an allergy.

In susceptible persons gluten causes an immune reaction that damages the lining of the small intestine, affecting its ability to absorb nutrients properly. A major ingredient of wheat, barley, rye and possibly oats, gluten is difficult to avoid, but that is what persons with this disorder must do.

Both food allergies and food intolerances can be difficult to diagnose. Although a severe allergic reaction such as Ellen's is impossible to miss, the offending food may not be the main ingredient of the dish.

With a food intolerance, it can take 48 hours or longer for the symptoms to appear, and severity may vary according to how much of the offending food is consumed.

There is also a lot of misleading information circulating informally by word of mouth or the media. If you have questions about your reaction to certain foods, it's best to talk to your doctor.

Cooking wild game with Wanda Adkins

Wanda Adkins sits at her kitchen table as she talks about her "trials and errors" in cooking wild game.

Reprinted from
The State Journal
February 1, 2012
By Kay Harrod

It was former Frankfort High School principal and retired national park ranger Larry Montgomery who set me on my journey to help you readers celebrate Groundhog Day, which is Thursday.

Beyond popping our heads outside as the sun comes up to see if we can see our shadows, I truly was clueless. Or perhaps we could place bets on whether the prognosticator Punxsutawney Phil, when dug from his warm bed as the sun rises to the flash of all the media cameras, would cast his shadow or not.

As a weather forecaster said recently, the prediction of six more weeks of winter as we have known this year simply may just mean more unseasonable good weather, perhaps not the impending doom of cold, snow and ice we normally see.

When the great summer corn of Greilach's farm first ripened, Larry brought me a bag from his trek to Shelbyville. But he was also on another mission; he brought me a book on early life at Ten Sleep, Wyoming.

That conversation about settlement days led to a discussion on cooking wild game, which they often did when he worked at Yellowstone.

"If you ever decide to do a story on game cooking, you couldn't do any better than talking to Wanda Adkins."

Truthfully, I had never given much thought to cooking Bambi and Peter Rabbit—not my style.

However, his words stayed on my mind.

I am always in search of great cooks, no matter their specialty. With the thought of Groundhog Day, my mind turned to cooking game and my visit with Wanda certainly did not disappoint.

Tracy State Journal photographer Tricia Spaulding joined me and our time with Wanda taught us both a few lessons on the preparation of game animals sought by many during hunting and fishing seasons.

Wanda knows best

"No, I have never cooked groundhog or possum. I suppose there are people who have. But I have certainly cooked my share of everything else from the outdoors."

Sitting at her kitchen table as the bright sunshine streamed through windows and what seemed hundreds of birds flew in her yard with cardinals brightening the landscape, we had the feeling of being at home—an immaculate home, built by her father and filled with treasures of beautiful dishes and furniture pieces handed down to her through the years.

The only child of Pat and Katherine Rice grew up in Frankfort. She met her husband, Sonny Adkins, from West Liberty, when both were attending then Morehead State College.

With almost 58 years of marriage, three children, Wanda has earned her degree in childrearing, home management and time in the kitchen.

And it is in her spacious home where everyone gathers to sit and enjoy meal together.

"It's a revolving door around here," she laughed. "I never know who or how many will be here, because they have always brought their friends, and now their families. I wouldn't have it any other way."

As for knowing Larry Montgomery, Wanda calls him an adopted son. "We love Larry and the last five years of Sonny's teaching career that were spent at Frankfort High School when Larry was principal and Mike Oder was superintendent were the best years of his teaching career."

Sonny Adkins taught in the Franklin County School system for most of his 38-year career. He began the junior varsity football program at the old Elkhorn Junior High School and ultimately became a beloved head coach at FCHS for five years.

After retirement he joined Montgomery to teach industrial arts at FHS.

Wanda worked for the Legislative Research Commission beginning first during the sessions of the General Assembly and spending the next 20 full-time.

In addition the couple purchased a 48-acre farm on Colston Lane where they would raise tobacco and cattle and a host of other animals for 25 years.

"I don't know what we were thinking when we bought that farm. We had a push lawn mower and that was it. Joe Leary owned the adjoining farm and really wanted the land. He stopped bidding when he found out we actually planned to live there. He loaned us his tractor the first year."

She says the couple laughs at their naivete, but it is also how we started.

"We only had a radio when we

EVES 21st CCLC Afterschool Students Tour Rod and Staff Publishing

The 21st Century Community Learning Center afterschool students at East Valley Elementary School recently had the opportunity to tour one of Morgan County's most successful businesses as a Career Shadowing experience. Rod and Staff Publishing located at Crockett, welcomed the students to their workplace with an informative and in-depth look at their publishing operation. The excited students, pictured at right, had the chance to see how a book is made from beginning with the editorial and illustration, to printing, then to the warehouse and subsequently to where they are packed up and readied for shipment. The students saw books being printed, above left, not only in English, but also in German and Spanish as Rod and Staff Publishing ships their books to many countries all over the globe. They got to see how they make stapled books, the perfect-bound book and hard back books — the three kinds of books that are made at Rod and Staff. They saw how they recycle the scrap paper for reuse, how books are cut and printed to how the books are inspected one at a time by hand for imperfections. After the tour each student received a book to take home as a gift along with a note pad and pen. The 21st CCLC afterschool staff and students wish to thank all of those at Rod and Staff Publishing who helped make this a most memorable experience.

married. I guess we did most everything on a wing and a prayer."

Wanda calls herself a frugal woman. "Always felt I needed to be to raise three children and educate them."

Her oldest son, Gordon Pat, works at LRC, daughter Bethany works for the state treasurer and youngest son, Richard, works for fish and wildlife. It is the latter, a bow shooter, who brings in the deer.

That sense of frugality becomes evident when the conversation turns to cooking game and she produces a years-old electric skillet that she has turned to time after time to prepare rabbit, squirrel, dove, deer, pheasant and fish.

"I have no idea how old this skillet is, but it is what I use to fry everything."

She has plenty of cast iron skillets—what normally might be considered best for this type of cooking—but she says the electric skillet provides the most even heat ensuring each piece gets cooked the way she wants it.

Frying is just one part of the process of cooking the game and she says the most important part begins either when you take the meat from the freezer or straight from the shoot.

Cooking wild game

In her garage freezer are packages of deer burger, strap back, roasts and steak.

"Deer is an incredibly lean meat, mostly muscle and requires some suet when it is made into burger."

"Strap back is the piece that lies across the back of the deer and is very lean."

From the time she removes deer or any other game from her freezer, she begins to infuse flavor.

"The process before (cooking) makes the difference."

She takes the deer and places it in enough water to cover it and pours about a half cup of white vinegar in the water and puts the covered container in the refrigerator.

She also uses this process on fresh and frozen squirrel, rabbit, dove and pheasant, replacing the vinegar with a third cup of salt.

"The salt water helps extract that game taste and takes the blood out of the fresh kill."

Once thawed, she removes the meat to a colander and drains off the water and then rinses it well.

Now for the important part.

"Many companies that render deer will remove the whitish/gray membrane from the meat, but some don't. It needs to be taken off."

She uses a sharp knife to get under the membrane and remove it.

For the strap back, she produces an antique heavy meat tenderizer.

"I place the meat between two pieces of wax paper and use both sides of this mallet and beat with all my might."

Once done, she opens a bottle of marinade or Italian dressing. She produces a bottle of bourbon/peppercorn marinade, but says she actually prefers the Italian dressing. "Plus it is cheaper." Frugal Wanda still at work.

Once the strap has marinated, she drains this as well and cuts strips, rolls them, wraps them in bacon secured with a toothpick and off they go to the grill or to a grill pan she has for her stove.

She also does dove breasts wrapped in bacon on the grill.

As for a deer roast she uses the thaw process and the marinade and drains it.

At the mention of deer roast, I noticed photographer Tricia perk up. She confessed to Wanda that she and her boyfriend, Quentin, had cooked a deer roast the weekend before and declared it "awesome."

But with Wanda's guidance on all things deer, her recipe for deer roast and Wanda's phone number, Tricia has vowed to try it again.

Wanda turns to her crockpot. She follows all the processes of thawing the deer roast in vinegar water and soaking it in the marinade and draining it. Then into the crockpot she puts in a beer, a packet of dried onion soup and a can of beef broth and adds the roast and lets it slow cook for the day.

Wanda says she learned to cook from Sonny's mother whom she calls the most gracious lady.

Cooking squirrel, rabbit and quail

Soak the meat in salt water. Drain in colander and rinse well. Make sure to pat the meat dry. Dredge in flour, salt and pepper.

Heat the skillet using enough oil to cover pan about a quarter inch.

If you've seen a snowy owl lately, you're not alone

Thousands of snowy owls are migrating from the Arctic into the lower 48 this winter in what some specialists are calling "the most significant wildlife event in decades," reports Laura Zuckerman of Reuters. They've been seen as far west as Montana, as far east as Massachusetts and as far south as Oklahoma, and the phenomenon is likely linked to a boom in lemmings, small rodents that are 90 percent of the bird's food supply. Large lemming populations last season probably led to an owl population boom in which breeding pairs hatched up to seven chicks, compared to two in normal seasons.

The exact reason for the mass migration is unknown, but some think greater competition for food and climate change could be factors. Owl Research Institute director Denver Holt said snowy owl populations are in decline because of lower lemming populations, which have shrunk because climate change is limiting growth of grasses they eat. Owls could be flying south in great numbers to look for more food.

Bird enthusiasts from across the U.S. are traveling to view the owls, "pouring tourist dollars into local economies and crowding parks and wildlife areas."

Screenings for colon cancer available here on March 7th

Colon cancer is a preventable disease. Nine out of 10 colon cancer patients may prevent or be cured with regular checks. Everyone age 50 and older should get regular colon cancer checks — earlier screening may be recommended based on family history of the disease. Early colon cancer may have no symptoms, so screening is vital to catch precancerous polyps or colon cancer in its earliest stages.

March is Colon Cancer Awareness Month, and King's Daughters team members will provide education regarding the importance of colorectal cancer screening.

King's Daughters Medical Center will conduct colon cancer screenings Wednesday, March 7, at 11 a.m. at the Morgan County Senior Center, 493 Riverside Drive, West Liberty.

Individuals should speak to their doctor about colon cancer screenings. Those who need assistance finding a physician may call 1-888-377-KDMC..

Caney Valley News

By Tracey B. Hatton

Feb. 27--Hello again from Caney Valley. You need to make it to heaven. We all need to make it to heaven. There is a need in each one of our lives to make heaven our home. We need to prepare. As if you were building a house or financing a home, you are in a preparation state. The preparation starts before we have the final structure. That is what heaven is to be. While we are on this side of the grave, this is the time for preparation. Boone and I were talking the other evening while coming back from Morehead. There are so many folks, young and old losing their lives. The only assurance each one of us have is to know that we have prepared to meet God. Death is certain. Eternity is certain. Heaven and Hell are certain. In James 5:14, "Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow, For what is your life? It is even a vapor, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away."

Happy birthdays: Lanny Faulkner, Berchlene Henry, Cindy Hammonds, Mystri Brown, Troy Sanders, Neal Clark, Shaye Whitely, Kourtney Haney, Cameron Masters, Terry Vanclave, Allison Blevins, Heather Estes, Denise Reed, Rose Howell, David Frazier, Lena Hale, and Jennifer Blanton.

Prayer requests: Donnie Lykins, Woodford and Berchlene Henry, Stanley Whisman, Leo Fugate, Francis King, Jimmy Litteral, Robin Phipps, Chester and Mary Catherine Lumpkins, Peggy Case, Doug Nickell, Lanny Faulkner, Barbara Lawson, Bobby Roseberry, Phillip Benton, Gary Dye, Mary Lee Hoskins, Gerald Chaney, Drexel Salyers, Earl Salyers, Earl Holbrook, Lee Barker, Steve Faulkner, Jimmy Hill's family, Wandlene Price family, Bernice Craft family, Lanny Franklin family.

Condolences to the families of Jimmy Hill, Wandlene Price, Bernice Craft, Kathy Bolin and Lanny Franklin. May these families and friends find comfort in the Lord during their time of sorrow.

We had a wonderful church service at Brushy on Sunday. The house was full. Bro. Hobart preached the spiritual food that our souls crave for and then we had physical food for the nourishment of our bodies. We then

Feb. 27 -- Thought of the week: Don't let the guilt from the past steal your future.

Get well to the sick and sympathy to all who have lost loved ones.

Visitors of Harold Goodpaster on Sunday, Feb. 19, were Jeff and Lennie Montgomery and Charlie and Connie Kelly. Later in the evening Teresa Lindon and Bob Peyton came over, and Teresa brought their supper. They ate together.

Gearld Goodpaster accompanied Harold Goodpaster on Monday to Morgan County ARH for testing.

Get well wishes and prayer request go out for Jackie Havens, who was in a Lexington hospital, but has now been released to go home.

Hello to Mae and Archie Smith. Barbara Carpenter ran into Mae recently at West Liberty and had a good chat. Thanks for the compliments, Mae. I'm glad you enjoy the column.

Teresa Lindon and Harold Goodpaster set out on Thursday to Campton to the Wolfe Rehab center. They got to visit with Venus for a good while. She seemed to be holding her own. Harold was sure glad to see her, it had been quiet some time since he had been able to get over there due to sickness.

Liz and Greg Phipps hosted a mini-class reunion/birthday gathering for Johnny Ray Smith this past weekend. Those attending were Teresa Peyton Lindon, Lelia Jo Oldfield, Shelia Williams Allen, Paul David Howard, and Richard Cox.

All had a enjoyable time. That was really great of you Liz. I'm sure they shared lots of memories and pics.

Tamera and Dalton Tate visited on Saturday and Sunday with Barbara Carpenter. On Sunday they drove to Morehead to do some shopping and eat out at a Mexican restaurant.

The writer visited with Harold Goodpaster on Sunday for a while.

I want to say hello to Edith Leach. How have you been this winter?

I received a call from Helen Lewis good to talk to her. Call again soon.

Jeff and Lennie Montgomery visited with Dan & Sara Cantrell on Saturday, Feb. 25. Then they traveled down to Mason and rejoiced with Bro. Jim Sparks, and Bro. and Sis. Junior and Tracey Banks. They had accepted the Lord as their saviour and on Sunday, Feb. 26, they were all baptized. Please remember these new converts. We need to lift them up in prayer and to pray for a hedge around them. We will be having church on March 4 (the first Sunday) at Brushy starting at 10:00 a.m. Mrs. Flora Perkins, who is 90 years old, was able to attend services at Brushy this past Sunday. The oldest living members at Brushy Fork Church are Bro. Astor Barker, Bro. Elmer Hatton, and Sister Flora Perkins.

The other evening at McDonald's we saw Terry Lewis, her mom Phyllis Lewis, and Lena Hale. Terry said that they had taken Lena to Ashland, Ky. for her birthday and decided to come to McDonald's to have ice cream.

Boone and I visited Berchlene and Woodford Henry on Saturday afternoon. They were doing better but still recovering. It was a nice visit. Aunt Berchlene said she was trying to drink more water and trying to get stronger.

We find in Romans 5:8, "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." My sister, Becky Roseberry, sings a song at church entitled the old coat and new. It talks about how the coat of sin is death, destruction, ragged, worn, and earthly. If we accept Christ as our saviour, we lay off the Old coat and the Lord puts on the new coat. We have to have a new coat, a new life. We have to be born again to reach the kingdom of heaven. There is no other way to enter in to the kingdom of heaven without having the Lord Jesus Christ as our personal saviour. Take the time NOW, call upon the Lord and put on that new coat that He has provided. Romans 6:6, "Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin."

Congratulations to the Morgan County Girls Basketball team on winning their district tournament. They will be playing in the 16th regional tournament.

Please remember the Dunn family at Cannel City in your prayers. They lost their home on Monday morning to a house fire. If the Lord impresses upon your heart to be of any assistance, please give with a willing and obedient heart.

May God bless and keep you.

Carolyn Montgomerys and eat dinner with them. Then after church services on Sunday.

Lennie, Jeff, Josh, and friend Steve, and Tom and Sara Coder went to visit and Carolyn cooked a delicious dinner for everyone.

Paula Cantrill stopped in on Saturday evening to visit with her mother Carolyn and Mason Montgomery.

On Thursday, Feb. 23, Carolyn Montgomery had as dinner guests Molly and Joyce Frances, of West Union, Ohio, Dan and Sara Cantrell and Clyde Montgomery. A enjoyable time was spent by all.

Carolyn Montgomery would like to say happy birthday to Paula Cantrill.

Gary Daniels visited with Mason Montgomery on Wednesday while Carolyn was in Morehead doing errands.

Thanks to all that have called and visited with Mason and to Jean Varney and Juanita Pieratt, who check so often.

Buford Blevins was in the hospital in Tennessee for cancer treatments and got to return home. Get well wishes and speedy recovery to you.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES

by Joe Nickell

GARDNER HOPKINS. An important figure in the early history of Morgan County was Gardner Hopkins, a Revolutionary War soldier and pioneer settler. Interestingly, he was also a descendant of the legendary Charlemagne, A.D. 742-814, who was king of the Franks and became the Holy Roman emperor in 800. He and his descendants will be discussed in the next two "Historical Sketches."

Gardner Hopkins was born on July 16, 1750, at East Greenwich, Rhode Island, the fifth of nine children of Francis and Mary (Joslin) Hopkins. In 1773, he married Mary Chambers in Orange County, New York, and they had three daughters — Lydia, Eleanor and Hannah.

Gardner Hopkins served during the Revolutionary War as a private in the New York Line. He was in the second regiment artillery, continental troops. Hopkins was described in the Revolutionary Roll Book of Captain Joseph Thomas as 30 years old, standing 5 ft. 7 in. tall, with fair complexion, blue eyes and dark hair. He enlisted for a three-year period, being discharged the fall of 1783 at West Point, New York.

Apparently in about the early 1790s, the Hopkins family moved to Kentucky, settling in Montgomery County. Accompanying Gardner and Mary were two of their three daughters, Hannah and Lydia, along with Lydia's husband, Thomas Caskey, and their first daughter. As early as 1805, they could have been in the area that would become (in 1823) the new county of Morgan.

In 1809, Gardner Hopkins, Thomas Caskey and Thomas Lewis (a Revolutionary soldier who had fought with George Rogers Clark in Kentucky, and married Hopkins' sister, Hannah) together purchased a tract of land of 100 acres near the mouth of Elk Fork Creek on the Licking River.

After Morgan became a county, Hopkins began to show up in the early court orders. In fact, at the April 1823 court session, he was designated to be exempt in the future from paying the county levy "on account of age and infirmity."

In January 1824, recorded as

Grave of Revolutionary War soldier and early Morgan pioneer Gardner Hopkins is in the Potter Cemetery. (Photo by Lucille N. Haney)

"a revolutionary soldier," he produced a schedule of his property, which was certified to the Secretary of War (probably regarding a pension). The following year a new road being surveyed, a court order specifically mentioned Hopkins' property.

Gardner Hopkins died on June 4, 1832, and was buried in what is now the Potter Cemetery on Route 7 (one mile north of West Liberty). (The Daughters of the American Revolution marked his grave there — see photograph — in 1959.) In 1840, Mary was receiving a pension as the widow of a Revolutionary War veteran.

Numerous Morgan Countians — including many Caskeys, Lewises and others — descend from patriot and pioneer Gardner

Hopkins, including my aunt, Lucille Nickell Haney (who helped with this sketch), his fourth great-granddaughter. Since Hopkins was a descendant of Charlemagne himself, so are all of Hopkins' descendants! Look for the next two "Historical Sketches" in this newspaper!

This Week In Frankfort

FRANKFORT — This week, casino gambling made it to the floor of the Kentucky State Senate. And this week, casino gambling crapped out.

So came the quick denouement of a public policy debate that has been with us, in one form or another, for two decades: Shall we join five of the seven states bordering us that have over those years allowed casino gambling within their borders — and in some cases, especially Indiana, just across the river from ours?

The answer, given for the first time by an unambiguous vote on the Senate floor, is: No.

Senate Bill 151 was defeated 21-16 after a little over two hours of debate. The measure fell a full seven votes short of the required 23 to send a constitutional amendment to voters for their own say on the matter in November.

Long awaited, the governor's casino bill, finally loosed upon the Legislature last week, didn't arrive without objection from both sides of the gambling issue. Gambling opponents simply opposed it. That was a given. But even some supporters of expanded gaming in Kentucky took exception to a central tenet of the plan, what they called its protectionist bias toward one industry, the horse industry, and writing that bias into the state Constitution. The words 'market monopoly' were used.

The governor's original bill specified that, of a prospective seven casinos, five would be at the state's eight racetracks. Two would be stand-alone. But it also stipulated that neither of those freestanding venues could be within 60 miles of a state racetrack — whether that track got a casino license or not.

As a practical matter, that meant there could be no casino in Louisville unless it was at Churchill Downs, and no casino in Northern Kentucky unless it was at Turfway. Lexington the same, with Keeneland and the Red Mile.

Kentucky geography further tells us this: The 60-mile restriction left only a couple of narrow strips where stand-alone casinos could go, neither of them metropolitan centers. The London-Corbin corridor, and (possibly) the Fort Campbell area were possibilities under the restriction.

Ironically — considering criticism the bill was too horse-centric — some in the horse industry itself (most notably a former governor who's also a horse breeder) criticized the amendment as not friendly enough to them. They worried aloud that casino revenues weren't with any specificity dedicated to their ailing industry, and that the two freestanding casinos could become 'mega-casinos,' dwarfing their own envisioned tracksite operations.

The sitting governor, elected twice on a pro-gambling platform, said he was amenable to suggested changes in his bill. He even took a rare leap and testified before the Senate committee debating it. The version that passed out of the State and Local Government Committee Wednesday did drop the stipulation that five casino licenses definitely go to racetracks. But it retained the 60-mile sphere of influence around them.

The proposed constitutional amendment cleared the committee by a 7-4 vote. It was the first time a Senate committee had approved any bill to expand gambling (other than charitable gaming, a different animal) since the state lottery bill sailed through the Legislature 24 years ago. Thursday's full-chamber vote marked the first discussion of statewide gambling-beyond-lottery on the Senate floor in all those years.

The roll-call whipping of SB 151, it seems fair to say, laid to rest one of this session's potentially defining issues. It remains to be seen how that defeat will resonate in years and sessions to come.

Meanwhile, another defining issue of 2012 — redistricting — remained in the air this week. At this writing (mid-morning Friday), the Kentucky Supreme Court should be hearing oral arguments on an appeal brought by the Legislative Research Commission after a Franklin Circuit judge ruled the new House and Senate redistricting plan unconstitutional. The legislative leadership disagreed, and appealed.

Under the lower court ruling, this year's legislative races are for now being run in existing districts, pending high court resolution of the issue.

NAP applications deadlines for crops are approaching

The deadlines to file an application for natural disaster protection under the Noninsured Assistance Program (NAP) are March 1 and March 15.

The crops for the March 1 deadline are: Alfalfa, Clover, Grass, Mixed Grass intended for grazing, hay, or seed, and TEFF. The crops for the March 15 deadline are: Beans, Beets, Broccoli, Cabbage, Cantaloupe, Carrots, Cauliflower, Corn, Corn-Hybrid Seed, Cucumbers, Eggplant, Gourds, Greens, Herbs, Lettuce, Onions, Peas, Peppers, Popcorn, Potatoes, Pumpkins, Radish, Sorghum, Sorghum-Grain, Soybeans, Squash, Strawberries, Sunflowers, Sweet Potatoes, Tobacco-Burley, Tobacco-Dark Air, Tobacco-Fire Cured, Tomatoes, Turnips, and Watermelons.

NAP helps producers reduce their risk when growing food and fiber crops, specialty crops, and crops for livestock feed. These benefits are only available for crops for which crop insurance is not available.

Producers filing for coverage under the NAP are required to pay a $250 service fee per crop per county not to exceed $750 per producer per county or $1,875 per producer in all counties.

Weeds have become resistant to Roundup

Agriculture herbicide use could double in 10 years

Herbicide use could double in the next decade unless farmers practice better weed management, according to a report from Penn State.

Since the mid-1990s, seed companies have genetically modified crops to be resistant to the glyphosate, sold as Roundup. It was meant to be a "more flexible way to manage weeds," said Penn State weed ecology professor David Mortensen.

But now farmers rely on genetically modified seeds, with 95 percent of the current soybean crop being modified, and herbicide-resistant weeds are developing.

In a report published in BioScience, researchers found 21 different weed species had developed resistance to glyphosate, despite company-sponsored research predicting that wouldn't happen. Weeds have developed ways to move herbicides away from targeted enzymes.

Seed companies are responding by making new generations of herbicide-resistant seeds, but researchers say that is not a sustainable solution. They suggest integrated weed management strategies, including planting cover crops, rotating crops and using mechanical weed control methods.

Bill wants redistrict plan made public before vote

FRANKFORT, Ky. Feb. 27 — Two House Republicans have filed a bill for the 2012 Legislative Session that if passed would require any proposed legislation dealing with redistricting for state and Congressional districts be released to the public and press five days before a vote could be taken in the General Assembly. House Bill 460's primary sponsors are Representative Jill York, R-Grayson, and Representative

C.B. Embry, Jr., R-Morgantown. "This year's redistricting fiasco, which has dominated much of our session and wasted thousands of dollars in taxpayer money, is proof positive that we need real change in how we handle drawing new boundaries," said Rep. York. "It is time that we shine the light on this issue and make sure all Kentuckians have plenty of time to review any future redistricting proposals before we as a legislative body cast our ballots."

amendment, committee substitute, floor amendment, conference committee report, or free conference committee report, and any bill containing redistricting plans and maps under the five day requirement spelled out in the bill.

House Bill 460, which was introduced in the Kentucky House of Representatives on February 24, can be viewed at the following link: <http://www.lrc.ky.gov/record/12rs/HB460.htm>.

The proposal would cover any and all proposals regarding redistricting, including any committee amendment, committee substitute, floor amendment, conference committee report, or free conference committee report, and any bill containing redistricting plans and maps under the five day requirement spelled out in the bill.
